Helps develop skills in - communicating, reading, writing and maths 100% agree (56% strongly agree)
Good standard of behaviour 92% agree (46% strongly agree) 8% disagree (2 parents) D - AN incident of inappropriate language towards my child. If been problems between children, the school has dealt with these matters in an appropriate manner in an appropriate amount of time. 100% agree (56% strong agree) 7 wrote not applicable
Supports child's learning 92% agree (50% strongly agree) 8% (2 parent) D - only learn what being taught at learning conference. Aware can look anytime but bringing work home to look through and do together could strengthen. D - I would like to be more aware of the work and standards in class. Homework other than reading, which he does anyway and spelling, I feel is not enough.	In newsletters, what is being learnt and taught in class in written about. SDP - Topic based homework. Reports 3x per year.

Learning conferences are helpful 83% agree (57% strongly agree) D - general overview, nice but not informative and not personal to child social develop, I know I can make a separate appointment but this seems a waste of time when could be done at the L.C SD - prefer chn not to be there so more frank discussion could be had. Aware can meet at other times but means more time off work. D - we already discuss child progress with her regularly and would prefer more traditional approach to parents events enabling us to have a more frank discussion about progress and experiences. D - I would like to hear more personal record from teacher. Not only academically but socially and values. I think child should be there to hear the comments -ve and +ve. SA - clear to the pinot and totally pupil focussed.	SDP - learning conferences will still be led by children for part of the LC but we will have three per year and each time the school report will be given out by the teacher and discussed. By being able to talk through the school report, all of the concerns should be addressed. However, I totally disagree with not having the children there. If parents want to meet us without there children, they can meet at a different time. Only 3 of the 51 families felt strongly enough to write to have no children which is not enough to change what is already going well and what the Ofsted inspector thought was a good process.
